Another Reason to Save With Oklahoma 529

529 plans have long been an excellent way for parents and grandparents to save for their family's future higher education goals. They are free from federal and state income taxes and an ideal savings vehicle for people who plan to fully fund a college education, those who can only contribute a little here and there and everyone in between.

Oklahoma residents can also use their 529 plan accounts to save and pay for tuition at elementary or secondary public, private, or religious schools, up to $10,000 annually, per student.¹ The same tax-free treatment applies whether you use the account for higher education or K-12 tuition.
